Freshmen Elect Hendrich President By Large Vote Grady, Cecil, Giesen Complete Roster Of New Class Officers

In the elections last Wednesday the freshman class overwhelmingly elected as their officers Robert Hendrich, president; William Grady, vice-president; Suzita (Tita) Cecil, secretary-treasurer; and Ann Giesen, historian.

Newly elected senior representative to the men's honor council is Robert Hewitt.

In a very close vote the junior class elected Richard Carter as representative to the assembly, and runner-up was Harrison Tyler.

Hendrich, better known as Choo Choo, is from Shaker Heights, Ohio. Before serving for two years in the United States Naval Reserve, he was president of the student body in high school, a member of several honor societies and a letterman in baseball, football, and basketball.

Grady, who is from Lynn, Mass., was a member of the honor council, glee club, a letterman in football, baseball, and track and participated in many other high school activities.

Hollywood, Calif., is Tita's home where she was the secretary of the student body, assistant editor of the year book and secretary of the freshman class.

Ann, who is from Radford, Va., was president of the student body and historian of the annual year book.

Hewitt, a senior from Portsmouth, Va., is a member of Kappa Alpha, vice-president of the senior class, a member of the nominations committee and is out for basketball.

A. C. Haigh Gives Concert Tonight

A program of piano music is being presented tonight at 8 o'clock in Phi Beta Kappa hall by Dr. Andrew C. Haigh, associate professor of fine arts.

For his concert, Dr. Haigh has chosen several well-known works of Chopin, including the Polonaise in F sharp minor and Prelude in C sharp minor. Other selections on the program include Bach's Prelude and Fugue in G major and Spanish Paven by Dr. John Bluu.

The Detroit-born pianist was graduated from the University of Michigan and received his M. A. and Ph. D. at Harvard. During the first World War, Dr. Haigh saw service as a second lieutenant in the infantry.

Before coming to William and Mary in 1944, Dr. Haigh taught at the University of Michigan, Cornell University and Harvard University.

Hudson Presents U.S. Navy Award

Howard Hyle, president of the student body, stated that the aim of student government officers this year is the establishment of a central student government office "to coordinate student activities" during the twelfth annual Honors convocation on Friday, Nov. 14.

This office will be located in the old publicity office in the Wren building and will work in direct connection with the assistant dean of women.

Frequent Meetings

A second aim of student government this year will be to hold frequent class president meetings, with the actual student government body to take a back seat.

Col. Giles R. Carpenter, professor of military science and tactics, spoke to the students about his experiences while serving with the 42nd Division of the infantry in the occupation of Austria.

Occupation Described

He described the actual occupation process, the re-establishing of a food distribution system and the refugee problems that confronted the American army. Concerning the Russians, Col. Carpenter found them "hard to organize and prejudiced beyond belief." The Austrians, on the other hand, he claimed were a people "beaten down, lacking in almost all moral principles, but still lovable."

In referring to the American soldier in general, Carpenter declared, "I still take off my hat to the private, the corporal, the sergeant and the lieutenant, for they were the ones who actually handled the details of occupation."

Presentation of a navy award for service in training naval personnel was made to the college by Capt. R. C. Hudson, USN, of the fifth naval district.

Dr. George Saute Delivers Address To IRC Members

By Arthur P. Thompson

Dr. George Saute, Director of the Institute of World Government at Rollins College, delivered the keynote address of the Inter-regional conference of International Relations clubs, Friday at 8 p. m. in Phi Beta Kappa auditorium.

Dr. Saute, in his address, expressed the belief that "It is possible, but not probable, that Russia has the atom bomb secrets at the present time." The speaker declared that the time for reaching an understanding on world policies is now, before the world prepares for an atom war.

Use of the major power veto was described by Dr. Saute as the principal stumbling block in the way of effective action by the United Nations. He declared that the impotence of the UN led to independent action, which in turn decreased the effectiveness of the UN still further. In addition to continual Russian defiance of the UN, the speaker cited the "Marshall plan," and the actions of the major powers relative to Greece.

Declaring that the United Nations, in its present form, is incapable of preserving the peace and security of the world, Dr. Saute turned to a comparison of the two major alternatives, the See IRC, Page 3

Davis Presents 19 Newly-Elected Phi Beta Kappa's At Convocation

By Mary Lou Hostetter

Nineteen newly-elected members to the Alpha of Virginia chapter of Phi Beta Kappa were presented to the student body by Dr. Donald W. Davis, recording secretary of the chapter, at the twelfth annual Honors convocation on Friday, Nov. 14.

Charles S. Baker, who hails from Cape May, N. J., was a Kappa Tau on campus before serving with the marines during the war. He is a chemistry major and a member of the Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society.

Catherine Collins, a French major, is from Hampton. She is a member of the French club and YWCA.

John Fritz, a history major, includes among his campus activities the presidency of IRC, membership in the Backdrop club, and the publicity chairmanship of the Canterbury club. In previous years he has worked on The FLAT HAT morgue staff and has been a member of Der Stuben Verein, the Philosophy and French clubs. He belongs to Phi Kappa Tau and comes from Rockford, Ill.

Kappa Sigma John Gordon, of Upper Darby, Pa., was president of his fraternity before leaving for service and is now its vice-president. He served with the naval intelligence during the war. A history major, he is also a member of the IRC, the Debate council and Philosophy club.

Coming from New York City, Fred Herman was president of the French club last year and is now a member of the IRC, and Der Stuben Verein. He is majoring in government.

Jean McLeod, Pi Beta Phi, is a history major coming from New Cumberland, Pa. She serves as business manager of the Colonial Echo and belongs to the IRC, the Spanish and German clubs and the YWCA.

An English major, Virginia Northcott belongs to Chi Delta Phi, and sings in the college choir. She has served on the Royalist staff in previous years and is a member of Alpha Chi Omega. South Bend, Ind. is her home town.

Bettie Pace, Kappa Delta, a transfer from the Norfolk division is majoring in French. She belongs to the French club, the women's chorus, the Backdrop club and has worked on stage crew and is a proctor in Barrett hall.

Katherine Anne Rhodes of Norfolk is a transfer from the Norfolk Division of William and Mary and is a French major. She is a member of the French club, Spanish club, YWCA, German club, secretary of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education society, and member of Pi Beta Phi social sorority.

Mary Elizabeth Rigby of Potomac Beach, Va., is a member of Alpha Chi Omega, a French major and publicity chairman of the French club.

William Saunders of Pulaski, is a chemistry major and president of the Student Affiliates of the American Chemical society. He is a member of the IRC.

Accounting major Gerald Schadege is a member of the Accounting club and Pi Kappa Alpha. He comes from Sandston, Va.

Sybil Schwartz includes The FLAT HAT, the IRC, the Balfour-Hillel club, the Colonial Echo and the position of secretary-treasurer of the World Federalists among her activities. She is a history major from Brooklyn, N. Y.

Jack Simmons of Irvington, Va. was last year's exchange student to Exeter College in England and is a president's aide.

Boyd Sisson, psychology major, is a transfer student from Concord, W. Va. He came to William and Mary in June, 1946, after his discharge from the army and has been a member of the Psychology club and Der Stuben Verein.

Philosophy major Mary Lisbeth Stedman belongs to the Philosophy and Psychology clubs and IRC. She hails from Wilbraham, Mass.

William Wartel of New York City is a chemistry major. A member of Sigma Rho, he also belongs to the Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society and See PHI BETA'S, Page 10

Filth In Classrooms

Some members of the faculty have noticed a considerable increase in the number of cigarette butts and other filth on the floors of academic rooms. Professors have stated that they don't like teaching in "pig sties."

Maids clean rooms in the academic buildings during the mornings and they find it difficult to clean all the rooms when there is such a lot of filth in the individual rooms. It is impossible to get a cleaning staff to work at night; and, therefore, some think it best to ban smoking in all academic rooms at all times, since most of the debris accumulates at night when students use the rooms for study purposes.

Controversy also has arisen over whether students should be allowed to smoke while classes are in progress. Since ventilation is poor in most rooms, professors object to teaching in a room after a previous class has made it blue with smoke and the floor is littered with matches and cigarettes. Because of the ventilation problem we suggest that smoking in large classes be prohibited even though suitable receptacles may be obtained. When students study at night in a classroom let them provide themselves with an ash tray. We urge professors not to stop smoking in classes that meet for a considerable length of time. If smoking is prohibited in these classes the students will leave the room and go to the rest rooms for cigarettes. Much valuable time is lost by the students if this practice is indulged in.

Ronald King Views Interviews In His William and Mary-Go-Round

Somewhere between the detailed accounts of McCray's Marauders and the leering, insipid face on the Chesterfield ad, FLAT HAT readers will find a weekly feature story about a campus personality. Interviews, they call them.

Call 'em what you will... this prose by any other name would still make us regurgitate.

The stories usually have catchy headlines such as "Oya Kloog Prefers Hiking, Hopscotch, Hoot-ows," or "L. S. M. F. T. Prexy Is Too Nauseating To Be News-worthy." You know the kind we mean... catchy... yeah... like trench mouth.

Every time we plow through one of those epics we ask ourselves two questions:

1. Has the Committee on Admissions fumbled the ball?
2. What really goes on during these interviews?

We won't attempt to answer the first question. Frankly, we were readmitted only because we bribed Dean Lambert by offering free baby-sitting service throughout our college career.

The second matter, however, aroused our curiosity to such an extent that we did a little investigating. And now we're going to let you in on the straight scoop. Here's the way it works:

Freshman Fanny Fantail (who, incidentally, was assistant morgue editor for her high school paper, the Deep Creek Dilemma) checks into the FLAT HAT office on Wednesday to get her assignment.

She can hardly believe her eyes (neither can we)—but there it is on the bulletin board:

FANTAIL — INTERVIEW VAN VELOCIPED.

(Van Velocipede, a big wheel on campus, is chairman of the Committee for the Coordination of Committees, vice-president of the ill-fated Fudge club, an aide to the president's aides, and a lobbyist for the local pool hall in the Student assembly.)

Fanny's ears throb excitedly as she picks up the phone to call to arrange the interview. The phone rings, a male speaks.

"Hello."
"Hello. Van Velocipede Hall? I'd like to speak to Old Dominion... (she giggles)... I mean... Van Dominion Hall? I'd like to speak to an old velocipede..."

The lad at the other end, a brilliant student of logic, gets the general idea. Van is awakened. He staggers to the phone, an ice-bag strapped to his head.

"Hullo."

"Van?" (Very informal, although her jugular vein has caused severe prognathism at this point.)

"Sorry, kid. All booked up for the season. Studying for my blood test right now..."

"But, Van... I'm Fanny Fantail, reporter for The FLAT HAT. I'm supposed to interview you for the paper."

"With pictures?"

"Yes."

"I'll be right over." (Which is the understatement of the week. Fanny places the receiver on the hook, turns around just in time to catch the hurried entrance of Van "I Love Me" Velocipede.

"Whaddaya wanna know about me?"

Fanny would like to ask, but her better judgment prevails. She makes a fresh start, slowly.

"Well... to what do you contribute your success to?" (Fanny is having a rough time with English 100, as you can imagine.)

"I guess it's because I'm not pompous, overbearing or conceited. I'm just a regular guy. I guess that's why I'm the most popular and best-liked boy on campus."

From then on out, everything that Van says evidences his inflated ego, his subnormal mentality, or his obscene opinions.

The feature editor calls Fanny and asks about the progress on the interview. Fanny sobs, "He didn't say anything we can print!"

"In that case," says the editor, "keep your story down to 1,200 words."

Fanny writes the story, then disappears, never to be found again... not even in a Williamsburg coffee shop.

Come Tuesday night, we read that Van Velocipede likes Hedy Lamarr, pickled pig's feet, and Artie Shaw's arrangement of "Stomp Him in the Face, Boys—He's From the University of Virginia."

We showed this column to some of the reporters on The FLAT HAT staff. One of the more conscientious souls sought our advice: "Do you suggest that I put more fire in the interviews?"

We could only answer: "No, kid... vice-versa..."

The denizens of Jockey Corner have requested that we mention briefly the passing of an old pal. Thus, in our small way, we pay final tribute to a comforting canine companion who died in action last summer—that wonderful hound, known affectionately to the boys as A. H.

Letters To The Editor

Defend Present Student Government, Question Homecoming Spirit

To the Editor:

In view of the apparent increasing critical attitude on the part of many students toward student government, I would appreciate it very much if this letter would be considered as one in defense of the PRESENT student government. More specifically, however, in spite of the fact that there have been many letters and articles criticizing the student government, I would like to direct my remarks to Mr. Joseph Callaway, who had his letter to the editor published last week. I have selected this particular letter because of the following reasons:

1. Mr. C. invited a reply by asking the question—"Why are the average students unable to learn of the Student assembly's actions?"
2. By the mere fact that the letter was published, it implies that the staff of The FLAT HAT also wants to know the answer.

3. Because someone should compliment Mr. Callaway on the timing of his letter, inasmuch as his name was to appear on the freshman ballot the very next day as a candidate for representative to the STUDENT ASSEMBLY. This, of course, alleviated some of the expense and trouble required in carrying out a good old-fashioned campaign on his own but,—
4. It should be pointed out that it is a political blunder to ask a question pertinent to the office for which he was a candidate without having a ready answer of his own.

Freshman Callaway said that he had read the student body constitution but I wish to say that his interpretation was very poor. The question that was asked is incorrect because the "average students" that he speaks for are NOT unable to learn of the Student assembly's actions. In fact, I will list five different and appropriate methods by which all "average students" may learn of the Student assembly's actions if they so desire.

1. By attending the meetings of the Student assembly. Although, as I mentioned, freshman Callaway was a candidate for that office he made no effort on his part to familiarize himself with any of the duties of that office because he would have had to walk the unheard-of distance between Old Dominion and Phi Beta Kappa.
2. By attending class meetings. Mr. C. may be interested to know that there are very few "average students" at the college this year and for proof read the following conservative figures. At the request of the Student assembly, one lonely freshman turned out to help build the bonfire before the Carolina game. The sophomore class president reports that less than 35 sophomores attended his two class meetings this year. The junior class president said that less than 40 juniors showed up for the only meeting that he has had. The report on seniors now follows.
3. By attending convocations (for which students are excused from their classes). Last Friday, the president of the student body, discussed at some length on the subject of what HAS BEEN DONE and what WILL BE DONE by the STUDENT ASSEMBLY this year. All students are invited to attend these convocations and seniors are given the special privilege of participating in the procession. At the convocation held Friday less than 40 seniors attended. The seniors probably did not attend the convocation for the same reasons that nearly one-third of the MERIT SCHOLARS did not attend. This display of college spirit was very embarrassing to the senior class president who requested that 300 seats be saved for the "average (senior) students."
4. By asking members of the Student assembly. To be brief and to the point concerning this method, Mr. Callaway, all members of the student body speak English and would be only too glad to pass on information concerning their meetings. If an "interpreter" is needed in your case, that can also be arranged.

5. By requesting your college paper to cover the meetings or to publish portions of the minutes. I would like to say that we have been fortunate enough so far this year to have had a representative of The FLAT HAT at each meeting. However, that reporter is more concerned with writing on such important subjects as "Fraternity and Sorority Rushing Recipes" and "College Dancing Problems."

I hope you make use of this knowledge, Mr. Callaway, and if this desire of yours continues, you might consider running for the Student assembly again this spring. Predicting that you will be elected, I assume you will, in the meantime, learn that it is of much greater value to the college to DEFEND rather than OFFEND.

Howard H. Hyle, president of the the student body, concurs with the ideas and opinions expressed in this letter.

Respectfully yours,
Roy F. (Dusty) Ash, Jr.
President of the Senior class and MEMBER OF THE STUDENT ASSEMBLY.

2. If other colleges can have majorettes why can't W&M?

3. How come no between-halves festivities on the field?

Never in the 20 years since I first saw a game at William and Mary, was spirit at a lower ebb than at the football game Saturday before last. A few feeble squeaks responded when the band FINAL-LY got up enough gumption to play the alma mater.

Don't think this letter is just a gripe (it should be) but to me there is something lacking in athletic spirit. In academic parlance, William and Mary is forging ahead in great strides. I am proud of that and its accomplishments. To have beautiful buildings and classrooms, well planned campus (in spite of the mud) is an inspiration not only to students but to visitors as well. But in my opinion something ought to be done concerning spirit. It has not improved (rather, it has diminished) and should it get to a much lower ebb, the only solution I can see is that William and Mary play all of its games away from home where total strangers have and will continue to show more appreciative spirit than the student body.

One of the heavy contributors to the self-centeredness of spirit is the lack of a band. A lot of us can remember when we had 75 to 80 pieces and all good too. It shows a lack of leadership in music and a complete breakdown of ideals connected with it. It is a shame, a rotten blithering shame and it is high time that something was done about it, one way or the other.

A few weeks ago an item appearing in the local paper stated that William and Mary should discontinue playing Virginia football teams because they are not in her class. From the display of student spirit Saturday before last, William and Mary should play Virginia teams only. Not that the team is not well qualified to play in top-flight circles and should

To the Editor:

In spite of the rain, the homecoming parade went off with a bang Saturday before last. The floats and gags were tip-top. But what I wish to know is what happened to the spirit of Homecoming when the parade was over?

There are several questions I would like for you to answer for me:

1. What in the blazes has happened to the band?

continue to play more and more top-notch teams but their success on the gridiron will not be a result of the student body being behind them. Personally I would rather see William and Mary lose to a team like Notre Dame or Michigan and Ga. Tech, Alabama etc., than to win over a smaller unimportant team. I think the team would profit by it. However, from the brand of football W&M is now playing, there would be few teams that could administer a licking to the Indians.

2. If other colleges can have majorettes why can't W&M?
3. How come no between-halves festivities on the field?

Come on student body get behind the team! Make plans ahead the next homecoming and have something really to offer the old timers. Get a band to be proud of. Get some of the lovely co-eds to strut their stuff and put on a show between halves that would be an eye opener. Organize the cheer section and let the world know that we have something to be proud of.

Sincerely,
Mack G. Britton '32x.

Editor's Note:

We wish Mr. Britton could have witnessed the cheering section at the North Carolina and Wake Forest games. Co-eds "strutting their stuff" was discontinued this year because of the "scanty" costumes. Such goings-on are deemed highly improper at the College of William and Mary.

Samuel D. Helfrich has been appointed business manager of The FLAT HAT, subject to the approval of the Publications committee. He replaces Louis D. Bailey, who resigned from the staff last week. Bot-E-Talk Botty's had a hard time this week. Since the weather turned cold, all the chilluns have gone inside for their "extra-curricular" activities, and I've been left out—alone and lonely. But as tough as things may be, I did manage to hear.....

Abner Pratt murmuring sweet things about fire trucks to Betty Hayes. Miss Wynne-Roberts making disparaging remarks about lighting or the lack of same at the Friday night dance in Blow gym. Then there's Minnie Mouse still going strong with Whitey Albertson. Pam Berryman and Ed King following the W&M Indians to Roanoke. Charley Sokol not dating anybody—"but they're all nice." Walter Raymond with not enough time even to write a story for The FLAT HAT.

"True love knows no bounds:" Chet Giermak's girl down from Chicago. Jere Bunting, of the Chicken Coop, importing. Wally Bolding breaking hearts at Matthew Whaley. Joe Rego and Constance Donovan taking the final step. Chuck Geddy engaged to Helen Barrett from Richmond. Ruth Shank and Larry Crum pinned. Tom Oakley cutting out his roommate and having troubles over Jean Black.

Up to meet the family: Betsy DeVol and Marnie Haynes—to see the Unruess and the Wrights (respectively).

Seen and heard: Bob Hendrich and Kitty Nottingham seen about. Howard Gilkerson and Iris Tolley. Molly Diggs and Bill Fanny—a holdover from Norfolk. Pete Quynn and Terrie Howe. Al Lang no smoother than before—but fightin'. Billy Hux growing a moustache. Ina Saville and Rod LaMontagne. Jack Gully in town and in his usual habitat.

And then there's: 18 Phi Betes causing no news for Botty—they spend their time among the books! Chet Mackiewicz and Ruth Richmond. Jim Sluss and Lucille Brent. The cute girls at the IRC convention. Caroline Geddy's 30-cent diamond from Fred Frechette. Jim Johnson put in a trunk and delivered to Ma Larrimore Saturday night—Fred Allen, Tommy Joynes aiding the shipment.

KA Dance: Bud Jones and Sue Green, Janet Pierce and Tommy Smith, Margaret Kennedy and Bob Hewitt.

Short and Sweet: Johnny Smith and Lou Sibley.

The Royal Purple: Ginny Parthenas crowned queen at Randolph-Macon's Homecoming festivities.

Barb Campbell and Tommy Korczowski seeing "Forever Amber" together. Lois Willis at the Harvard-Penn game. Penny Allenbaugh, Sue Green, Jane Seaton and Jan Walser off to Princeton for the Dartmouth week end.

Sigma Pi Dance: Barbara Humphrey and Squirrelly Sterling, Mollie Prince and Fred Flannery.

That about does it for this time, I guess. But just a word to that freshman gal who's been flirting with me. She might as well know that there is, unfortunately, a Mrs. Botetourt, too. Surprised?

balance of power and world federation. He stated that the chief point made by advocates of the balance of power is that power, when concentrated, becomes uncontrolled, and is invariably abusive as far as possible, Dr. Saute declared. He decried the use of either of the first two methods for obtaining world government.

Dr. Saute, an active member of the United World Federalists, concluded that the best course open to the world today is world federation, through gradual but rapid strengthening of the powers of the United Nations, in much the same manner that the American government was strengthened after the Confederation was formed. Dr. Saute answered questions from the delegates at the conclusion of his address. He was introduced by Dr. Harold L. Fowler, professor of history.

Over 100 delegates represented 28 colleges, from Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, and North Carolina, John Fritz, chairman, revealed. The conference theme was "Peace, through a balance of power, or World Government." Registration for the conference began Thursday night, and the final session was held Saturday afternoon. Following the formal closing of the conference, delegates were conducted on a tour of Colonial Williamsburg.

Delegates divided into four round-table groups for Friday-afternoon and Saturday-morning forums. These groups discussed various phases of the conference theme, which were as follows: The UN in its present form, the balance of power principle and a federal world government. Briefs on the various phases of the problems were presented to the respective round tables on Friday afternoon, by student delegates, to start the general discussions.

Saturday morning's debate was on the conference theme. William and Mary and Randolph-Macon debaters participated in the non-decision event. Representing William and Mary were Herbert Bateman and William Greer. The conference's final session heard reports from the various round-tables, and plans for future conferences were discussed. Dr. Charles O. Lerche, assistant professor of government, was the conference advisor.

ed. He declared that this school valued freedom, justice and peace in that order.

Several means of obtaining world government were mentioned. The first possibility mentioned by Dr. Saute was that, if the United States should take no action to promote world order, and should continue to lag in the armaments race, we might find ourselves the victim of another "Pearl Harbor," with Russia the perpetrator this time.

The second method of obtaining world government was described as the "American Empire," and was described in terms of ideas attributed to author James Burnham. This course would involve the use of persuasion, prestige or force by the United States and its friends, toward the end of extending the American sphere of influ-

Indians Smear W & L Eleven In Mud, 45-6

By Tom Joyner

The big, bad Indians turned on an impressive rushing offense in Roanoke Saturday, covering 338 yards to trample the Washington and Lee Generals into the cold, wet mud at Victory Stadium, 45-6. Some 3,500 spectators braved the dismal weather.

Jack Cloud (no relation to those which hovered over Roanoke all day), waded into the end zones on four occasions to firmly establish himself in top spot among state scorers. Ed Magdziak, reserve freshman wingback and younger brother of Stan, "The Toe" and "The Arm," racked up two T-D's and end Lou Hoitsma took a Stan Magdziak pass for the other.

Tribesmen along the line once again proved their superiority as they held the Lexingtonians to minus five yards via rushing. Ends Lou Hoitsma and Bob Steckroth, tackles Red Caughron and Ralph Sazio, guards Knox Ramsey, Jim McDowell, Bill Saffko and Moe Kish, centers Tommy Thompson, George Hughes and Sonny Davis, and all the other linemen who saw action, left the "Generals" looking more like enlisted men.

It took the Redmen only three minutes to tally. The Generals, unable to go through the mighty Indian stone wall after receiving the opening kickoff elected to punt but Hoitsma came through fast to block it. The Williamsburg Warriors took over on the 14, and in just a few plays Cloud bulldozed his way into pay dirt. Stan Magdziak, who doesn't ordinarily miss extra points, tried for the placement but the wet ball slid off the side of his foot.

(Stan made good three out of seven for the day, which is far better than it sounds, considering the wind, rain and mud in the "Magic City.")

Later in the first period, Herb Poplinger, starting wingback who averaged better than 15 yards each of the ten times he touched the ball, scampered 63 yards to the Generals' 14. A 15-yard clipping penalty here didn't stop the Braves, as Magdziak pitched to Cloud on the one, and from there Jack flew over.

Once more the boys in Blue (sort of a mucky blue) couldn't progress and had to kick. Sheer power, featuring jaunts by Cloud, Poplinger, Lex and S. Magdziak, See W&M TAKES, Page 6

Inn Seeks Students To Work As Caddies

Part-time jobs as caddies at the Williamsburg Inn golf course are available, according to Roy (Dusty) Ash, assistant to the professional there.

Rates which amount to about 70 cents per hour are paid in addition to tips, Ash said. The wage scale is available from Leonard Biles, the pro, and he will be able to give details to interested students.

The Inn course, which was worked over during the month of October, is in much better shape now. It may be the home course of a William and Mary golf team next spring.

The William and Mary team, in search of some kind of suitable bowl in which to keep their scalps for the season, will rule as a heavy favorite on the basis of season records, calibre of opposition and almost any field in which the teams can be judged.

Heavier Backfield

While the visitors' line is somewhat lighter on the average than the Brave forward wall, the Bowling Green backfield will outweigh the Indian ball carriers by several pounds to the man.

The Falcons boast only a mediocre record for the year, having defeated Central Michigan, Ohio University, Kent State and Findlay college while losing to Xavier, Dayton, Miami of Ohio, and St. Bonaventure.

Falcons Injured

Injuries incurred in some of the earlier games have handicapped Bowling Green players in recent weeks, and may keep several of their better men sidelined for a good part of the William and Mary game. Most of the William and Mary players are in good shape except for a few bruises received in the Washington and Lee game last week.

Starting for the visitors Saturday are expected to be Jim Knierim and Bob Schelker at ends, Don Verduin and Les Ridout at tackles, John Sheldon and Bruce Bellard at guards and Vern Dunham at center. Backs include Russ Maples at quarter, Max Minnich and Tom Inman at the halfback posts and Jack Woodland at fullback.

William and Mary's lineup will be essentially the same as the one which has started against all eight of the Indians' foes so far this year. Included are Bob Steckroth and Lou Hoitsma at ends, Ralph Sazio and Red Caughron at tackles, Bill Saffko and Knox Ramsey at guards and Tommy Thompson at center.

Cloud at Fullback

The three backs who have started most of the time, fullback Jack Cloud, blocking back Tom Mikula and wingback Henry Blanc are slated to start, with Buddy Lex or Stan Magdziak in line for the tailback post.

Some of the talented reserves who have had little opportunity to play this year may get a chance to play a large portion of the Bowling Green game, and they may run the score up just to show that they can do it.

Post-Season Bowl Picture Begins Shaping Up; William And Mary May Receive Bid To Play

By Bill Greer

With the end of the football season drawing near, gridiron enthusiasts all over the United States are speculating on the chances of the various leading teams to make the trek to the growing number of bowls spread in an arc over the Southern portion of the country.

At William and Mary, the fine Indian team is in line for bids to several of the better bowls, and the prospects of the Big Green's participating in Jan. 1 festivities at some bowl are good.

Lineups for the various games are shaping up pretty well at this stage of the season, with Bob Chappius and his Michigan Wolverines apparently a shoo-in to tangle with Southern California, prospective Pacific Coast conference champion in the Rose Bowl. That game should be one of the biggest of the year this winter, but there are pictures on the horizon of sad years ahead for the Tournament of Roses' chief attraction.

RESERVE END MARVIN GRAHAM, one of the better pass receivers on the William and Mary football team, is playing his last season of collegiate football this year. Playing here before the war, "Big Stone" was a member of the 1942 Southern conference championship team here.

ARC Course In Life Saving Starts At Blow Pool Tonight

This year, as in past years, a Senior life saving course will be offered in Blow pool, beginning tonight at 8 o'clock. The James City county chapter of the American Red Cross will sponsor the class.

W-M Runners Eighth In SC

William and Mary's cross country team finished up in eighth place in the Southern conference meet at Raleigh yesterday, scoring 200 points. The University of Maryland team was high for the meet with 24 points, and VPI and Duke finished in second and third, respectively.

Some 1,000 persons were on hand to watch the 65 runners, the most to participate in the history of the conference meet.

Bob Palmer and Jim Umberger, both of the University of Maryland, took the first two places to give their team the inside track for the championship. Winning time was 21 minutes, 22 seconds, a new course record for the 4.1 mile distance.

See CROSS COUNTRY, Page 6

Miss Virginia Till, law librarian, will head the instructional staff. She has had several years of experience on the board of the American Red Cross aquatic school at Camp Letts, Md. Students who hold active instructor certificates and who would like to assist with the class should see either Miss Till or Dr. Sinclair for further information and should attend the first meeting of the class.

A number of students have already signified their intentions of taking the class. The class is open to all eligible students of the college as well as to all qualified men and women from Williamsburg and surrounding communities. Qualifications include proficiency in swimming and a minimum age limit of 16.

An instruction course will be held in the spring here for all those who pass the Life Saving course or who already hold active certificates. Certificates expire after a three-year span unless renewed. A minimum of 15 hours of practical theory is required before an applicant may take the examination. The schedule of hours and class times will be worked out with Miss Till and the other members of the staff at the first class meeting.

Smoke Signals

By BILL GREER

The season of the year is approaching for the selection and announcement of All-America and various other all-star teams which, during the past decade or so, have come to the phenomena of magic significance in our sports-conscious way of life.

Since the time Walter Camp first selected a team of the best players from Harvard, Yale and Princeton, the race has been on to see who could turn out the most fabulous all-star team, and could get his accepted as the standard.

Today, scores of regional and national teams are picked by magazines, news syndicates and individual newspapers. Some are picked on the basis of personal observations of writers or coaches, while others are selected on reputations of the athletes resulting from high-pressure publicity and past performances.

The most accepted of All-America teams are the Associated Press selection, chosen by a nationwide vote of sports editors; the Saturday Evening Post choice taken from a poll of coaches; and the "Grantland Rice" team, originated by Camp and printed in Colliers.

The high degree of proficiency which has been attained by American football teams, however, makes absolute selection of the 11 best players in the nation, then the next 11 and so on, impossible. In a year like 1946, when All-American players returned to school to use up the remainder of their eligibility and found themselves unable to make the first team, some of the futility of picking the teams became apparent.

The large number of athletes who are of first-grade quality, found all over the nation during years such as this, makes selection of group of eleven as the best in the nation an unfair move to scores of other players who may be just as good as those who were picked, or even better.

Reputation Counts

The extent of the school's reputation means much in the selection of the player, and the great amount of publicity an individual can receive can boost him from the ranks of the average to the ranks of the great.

On the other side of the picture, selection to one of the "major" teams can give a player a head start in professional football and allow him to cash in on the hard work and long hours he has put in. Also, having a player picked to a big team gives his school a large amount of publicity which could be obtained in few other ways.

Selection of all-star teams has come to be a major seasonal occupation, and it is a much-anticipated part of late-autumn sport pages. It will be interesting to see how some of the fine players such as Knox Ramsey, Jack Cloud and Tommy Thompson make out when the teams are announced.

Bowling Green

We have little doubt that Bowling Green State University has a fine football team—in its class. But, unfortunately, the class is not the same one in which William and Mary is playing this year.

A quick look at the record of the Falcons shows an opening game loss to Xavier by a 2-0 score, a 20-19 win over Central Michigan, a 20-13 loss to Dayton and a 33-19 loss to Miami of Ohio, a 2-0 triumph over Ohio University, 21-18 and 26-6 wins over Kent State and Findlay, and a 21-14 loss to St. Bonaventure, in that order. Last Saturday they beat Iowa State Teachers.

Perhaps it is a good thing that the William and Mary game is the last on the schedule of the Ohio team. The two teams have no business on the same football field at the same time. Since they're playing, however, about the only thing the Braves can do is run See SMOKE SIGNALS, Page 6

Always A Star, While Thousands Shout, Magdziak, 'The Arm,' Goes In And Out

By Earle M. Copp, Jr.

The most substituted man on Coach Rube McCray's football squad is Stanley Walter Magdziak, a triple-threat back hailing from Passaic, N. J.

Magdziak, who is called "The Toe," "The Arm," and "Stosh," but is better known as Stan, trots on and off the field of play an average of ten times a game to perform one or more of his various specialties.

To start with, he can pass. Before last week's game, he had attempted 58 tosses, completed 26, for 379 yards. Out of that number have come five touchdowns. Last year Stan ranked 16th among the nation's passers with a percentage of 63. He completed 25 out of 40 tries totaling 412 yards, and was credited with nine touchdown throws.

On the other end of three touchdown passes this year was Vito Ragazzo. The first was the winning touchdown against Wake

Stan Magdziak

Forest. That one went for 15 yards. The last two were rung up in the VMI game. A favorite play is a short pass from Stan to Tom Mikula for five- and ten-yard gains.

Magdziak can also run. Lately he has been going for five- or ten-yard gains, though the times he has been caught behind the line on pass plays subtracts from his total. In 38 rushing plays he has garnered 116 yards, but has lost 67, for a net gain of 49.

In the kicking departments Stan has a monopoly on punting and place kicking. For 33 punts he has averaged 39.8 yards, sometimes kicking them over 50 and 60 yards. Last year he punted only six times, but averaged 39.3 yards per kick.

His other kicking achievement is the extra point. One can be almost certain that he will split the uprights, as he has notched 23 out of 25. In 1946 Stan booted 31 out of 41. Last season he racked up one field goal, against Miami.

Magdziak graduated from high school in 1944, and came down in time to be a starter that fall for the Indians. He has been playing much of the time since.

Now in his senior year, Stan has passed his 22nd birthday. He tops the yardstick at an inch over six feet, and weighs in at 200 pounds.

Not only a triple-threat, Stan is also a three-letter man. He has been a mainstay on the Tribe's basketball teams, earning an All-State berth as forward in 1946. When Spring rolls around he can be found on the baseball mound tossing down to all sorts of batters.

Last June he was awarded the Jack Dempsey trophy for being the "outstanding athlete" at William and Mary. He was picked by a vote of the Varsity club.

Stan threw the javelin on Coach Dick Gallagher's track squad in 1946 and another of his sports is tennis. With all this to take up his time, he can still find an hour or two to team up with Tommy Korczowski for a few rubbers of bridge.

It is no wonder, then, that with all his athletic background, Magdziak is majoring in physical education. When it will come down to showing his teams how to play a certain position or play he will have a lot of experience behind him.

College Orchestra To Play

The William and Mary college concert orchestra will play the accompaniment to the high school production of the Mikado by Gilbert and Sullivan on Wednesday, Nov. 19 at 8 p. m. in the Matthew Whaley high school auditorium.

Three Teams Still Unbeaten In Fraternity Touch Football

In the big intramural football game of the week SAE moved into high gear by trimming a powerful KA outfit, 41-14. SAE, last year's champions, capitalized on pass interceptions to give the challengers a thorough beating. Sigma Rho kept pace with the leaders by dropping Sigma Pi, 13-0, and Pi KA is undefeated still.

In the Independent league OD "A" kept its hold on first place by defeating the ODemons, 33-6. The victors have the highest scoring average per game this year in intramural football. To date they have scored 150 points in four games, 37.5 points per contest. SAE is second with 122 points for four games, an average of 30.5, and Sigma Rho follows with 27.3 points per try.

Eddie Anderson scored three touchdowns as Sigma Pi downed Phi Alpha, 34-7. Ronnie Hanft, Phi Alpha captain, scored the first touchdown of the year for his team on a pass from Rubenstein and also added the extra point.

Elias Richards and Bill Shearin joined Les Olsen, Harvey Levine, and Jack Hight in the tennis tournament quarter-finals. Shearin scored a 6-1, 6-0 win over Pete Carasso, while Richards downed Frank Deterhol, 6-3, 6-1. At this time three matches have to be played before the round of eight will be completed.

Before the Christmas holidays, an intramural swimming meet will be held. Within a few days entry blanks will be distributed among the various team managers. Any independents will be free to enter.

Broadcast Comment

While we do not expect a "Bill Stern" portrayal of the William and Mary football games, it would be nice to know what is going on most of the time, and that is more than we can say for the account of the Indian-Washington and Lee game played in Roanoke in the mud last Saturday. The mud was bad, but the radio announcer could have told the general direction in which the ball carrier was running most of the time.

The handling of the William and Mary games by the public address announcer, Arthur Beauchamp, of Newport News, has been outstanding. He has given an understandable, coherent and wellenunciated account of the home games of the Indians.

Indians Were 'Up'

It was another "up" day for the Indians last week, the Braves blocking and tackling viciously against Washington and Lee. Larry Leonard, sports editor of the Richmond News Leader, called it "one of the finest exhibitions of precision blocking on a muddy field" that he had ever seen.

We'll venture a statement that on one of their good days, the Indians are better than any team in the country with the exception of five or six teams, including Michigan and Notre Dame.

This week's North Carolina-Duke game will tell the tale as to whether the William and Mary will finish in first or second place in the Southern conference race. North Carolina should defeat the Blue Devils on the basis of past performances, but the game is always a blood battle, and anything could happen. We'll take the Tarheels.

Alpha Chi Omega Wins In Ping Pong

Betty Coumbe trimmed Virginia Rassinier, 21-13, and Wicky Wierum won over Elaine Wilsey, 21-16, as Alpha Chi Omega defeated Kappa Delta in the finals of the women's intramural ping pong competition last week.

Betty and Wicky completed Alpha Chi's clean sweep when they trounced Elaine and Libby McLaughlin, 21-11.

Julie Woodbridge handed Joan Kohler a 21-1 shellacking to lead Jefferson to an easy third-place finish over Chandler by virtue of another shutout. Reba Burgess had a hand in the other two Jefferson triumphs as she outlasted Sally Rose, 21-15, and teamed with Julie to take a 21-7 decision over Joan and Sally.

All students who plan to attend the performance of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra at the Mosque in Richmond on Monday, Nov. 24, may obtain their tickets from Mary Keeney at the Alpha Chi Omega house.

took the Indians to the W & L 20. Magdziak dropped back 10 yards and heaved the soggy pigskin into the end zone where Hoitsma made a brilliant wet-weather catch for the third score.

And that same Mr. Hoitsma rushed in to block another punt just a few minutes later, the Red-men taking over on the W & L 42. Ed Magdziak delivered it to the 16 on a reverse play that the Generals haven't figured out yet, and Cloud took it over through the center.

Leading 26-0, the Indians came back even stronger after the intermission, moving 65 yards to score in six plays. Lex, Cloud and Popplinger picked up five successive first downs and Cloud ended up in six-point land.

Later in the third frame, Jack Bruce brought a punt back to the Generals' 31, and young Magdziak took it the rest of the way in three plays. In the final quarter, Ed went 25 more yards for the latest Indian tally.

Jim Bennett, of W&L, intercepted a Magdziak pass on the Indian one-yard stripe and raced the length of the field for the lone General marker, in the final seconds of play.

Saturday's was the final gridiron meeting of the two schools, and one that the Gentlemen from Lexington will have a hard time forgetting. It was the worst beating a William and Mary combine ever handed Washington and Lee.

The Generals weren't penalized a yard, while the Indians lost 85 on nine decisions, and two Tribe touchdown passes were called back in favor of penalties.

Hockey Team Downs Norfolk Division, 4-1

The women's varsity hockey team beat Norfolk Division 4 to 1 last week. The line-up as follows:

Class Officers

J. P. Morgan, Richard Reymer, and Douglas Weiland were elected freshman representatives to the assembly. The newly-elected women representatives are Mary Anne English, Betty Hicks, and Kitty Lee Nottingham.

"The elections this time proved to be very exciting," stated Roy (Dusty) Ash, chairman of the elections committee, "due to the ably handled campaigns; but the overall average of men and women voting was only 52 per cent."

Cloud Scores Four Markers, Raising Point Total To 78

By scoring four touchdowns against Washington and Lee in Roanoke last Saturday, Jack Cloud not only pulled far ahead of other players in the William and Mary scoring race, but he moved into comfortable leadership in the Virginia collegiate scoring derby.

The crashing William and Mary fullback now boasts 13 touchdowns for 78 points, and is just one touchdown behind Gambino of Maryland for a tie for leadership of scorers of the Southern conference.

Stan Magdziak, by kicking three out of seven extra points against the Generals, edged his total for the season to 40 points, including two touchdowns and 28 points after touchdown, scored from placement. Even though he maintained his leadership in the point-kicking contest, the four attempts which he missed on the soggy Victory stadium gridiron were twice as many as he had muffed in the six preceding games.

The two men who joined in to bring the number of players in the scoring column to 14, were Ed Magdziak, Stan's younger brother, with two touchdowns, and Lou Hoitsma, with a single six-pointer. A touchdown for Ed Magdziak and another for Vito Ragazzo were called back.

Federalists Hear David Andrews On World Government Alternatives

David Andrews, field secretary of the United World Federalists of Virginia, spoke to the college chapter last week on the alternatives for federated world government which are evident today.

Andrews eliminated the possibilities of preparation for war by the military advancement of the atomic energy secret, preparation for defense of atomic war by decentralization of our highly populated cities and launching an immediate "preventative war."

He said that scientists are convinced that the "atomic secret" is not lasting; that, with the known information, any country may also possess the secret within three to six years; that preparation for a defensive war means giving our government dictatorial powers which would sacrifice almost all of our democratic principles; and that "preventative war" is not morally justified in the United States.

The difficulties of creating a federated world government were discussed, while the possibilities, especially in the face of what already has been done, were stressed. Andrews said that he personally believed in working through the existing UNO, rather than trying to found an entirely independent federal governmental body.

VA Urges Early Report Of Changes In Plans

Veterans who know in advance when they plan to drop or complete their training programs should notify the Veterans Administration at that time instead of waiting until they actually stop their training or college program, VA officials have stated.

A recent survey disclosed an average lapse of 23 days between the time the veteran stopped his training and the time VA was notified. Veterans must refund such overpayments to the government.

A pep rally will be held at 7 p. m. on Friday behind the Wren building for the game with Bowling Green of Ohio Saturday.

Friendliness Identifies Lois Willis, Vivacious 'Echo' Editor

By Leslie Morgan

One can see Lois Willis everywhere around campus. A pretty brunette with lively eyes, she gives an immediate impression of friendliness and "sparkle."

Lois came here in '44 from Newport News, where she was valedictorian of her class, and she has continued that trend by making dean's list and Mortar Board. In college, Lois' main activity has been the Colonial Echo. She started this work in her sophomore year, typing for the yearbook, and has ended by becoming its editor. She remarked that "It is interesting work, and I enjoy it, but I wish we had more cooperation from the students."

Last summer, Lois visited the yearbook's printers, the Benson Printing Company, of Nashville, Tenn. She says that of the 50 yearbooks the company prints, they consider William and Mary's the finest, supporting the recent award the Colonial Echo won in the Virginia Intercollegiate Press association convention in October.

Lois calls herself a "bridge fiend," and says she loves "coffee, receiving mail, and basketball." She managed the girls' varsity team last year, and was famous as "Ma" to the team. She is vice-president of Chi Omega, and belongs to Kappa Delta Pi, the national education society, Kappa Chi Kappa for Girl Scouting and the Library Science club.

Lois' major is library science, and she claims that "I spend my waking hours at the library." She has worked in libraries around Newport News during summer vacations, and next semester she

Charles J. Duke Announces New Requirements On Requests For Repairs, Moving Materials

Except in emergencies, all requests for repairs or moving materials and all complaints of services must be submitted on standard forms to the college," Charles J. Duke, Jr., bursar, has announced.

These forms will be distributed among members of the college organization usually responsible for submitting requests. Others desiring to make complaints or to request the services of the maintenance department may call at the information desk in Marshall-Wythe where a form will be furnished.

Requests for service are to be made in triplicate and one copy is to be retained by the person initiating the request. All requests for service in men's dormitories, women's dormitories and sorority houses will be routed through the offices of the dean of men and assistant dean of women respectively.

"In case of emergency, notice must be furnished to the information desk in Marshall-Wythe and will be relayed from there to the proper college department," Duke declared.

Forms received will be analyzed and processed each morning. All requests for services, except in the case of emergencies, must be deposited at the information desk prior to 9 a. m. if they are to receive attention during that day. In case of requests for moving furniture and equipment, at least two days should be allowed.

plans to work in the library at Matthew Whaley. She will also practice teaching English in connection with her minors, English and education.

As for post-graduation plans, Lois wants to combine traveling with librarian work, and would like to get a position overseas or around New York. Concerning this field of work, she concluded, "All librarians aren't 78 and ancient"—and her personality, popularity and looks certainly support that statement.

The beginning time for fraternity rushing on Thursday, Dec. 4, has been changed from 7 p. m. to 9:30 p. m., William (Bill) Norgren, president of the Fraternity association has announced. The change is being made because of the presentation of "Blithe Spirit" the same night.

A limit of 85 dollars per chapter was reaffirmed as expenses for rush week, and no outside gifts will be permitted. Rushing will be held at the shelter, Brafferton hall, Monroe living room, Great hall, Old Dominion lounge, Blow gym trophy room, Brown hall living room, the women's lounge in Blow gym, the small cafeteria, the mat room in Blow gym and the Methodist church basement. "The fraternity association wishes to express its thanks to the Rev. Ben B. Bland, who is allowing the use of the church basement for rushing," Norgren stated.

Magill Sets Deadline For Royalist Material

Deadline for the second issue of the Royalist is Dec. 11, it was announced this week by Marcia Magill, editor.

"All types of material, especially humorous pieces, articles, and lecture leavenings, are desirable," Marcia declared. Contributions may be turned in to Marcia or placed in the Royalist box in Marshall-Wythe.

Judges who will award the cash prizes for contributions which will appear in the first issue are Althea Hunt, associate professor of fine arts; Carl Roseburg, instructor in fine arts; Dr. Frank B. Evans III, assistant professor of English; and two senior students, Dan Wilson and Ann Blumberg.

New staff members are Kitty Trask, Stuart DeMurguiondo, Betty Davis, Chris Moe, Leslie Morgan, Doug Williams and Ann Giesen.

RPI Students Stage Demonstration To Arouse General School Spirit

(Reprinted from the Nov. 13 issue of the Richmond Times-Dispatch)

In what appeared to be an effort to arouse school spirit, some 500 Richmond Professional Institute students staged a between-classes rally in Shafer Street shortly before noon yesterday.

The students had at least three matters on their minds, according to one co-ed, who said it was felt by the student body that more persons should attend and participate in college athletics; that more persons should buy annuals and that the honor system should be kept working.

One other point was raised by one of the men who said, "Until a couple of years ago this was a girl's school and they're still running it like one."

The important meeting took place in the street because the college, which has trebled its enrollment in the last three years, has no facilities large enough for such a demonstration, according to a student government officer.

The meeting was "quite a success" said one student who didn't think the meeting was called but that the students "just go together" in the interest of promoting school spirit. "The majority of students are day students and don't have too much interest in activities. Gradually school spirit was going down and down and down and got to the point where even our honor system had dropped. There was some rumor that the honor system might be taken away," she said.

Another student said the school hasn't a big enough gymnasium and no adequate rooms for class meetings, but made it plain that she considered these minor difficulties that could be worked out with officials who recognize the need if the students themselves can be aroused to do more than "just attend classes."

French Professor Discusses Peace At Vesper Service

"Peace has not yet been established in Europe," declared Dr. Pierre Macy, professor of French, at chapel last Wednesday, "and a war ideology still persists."

Dr. Macy brought this out in his speech on the conditions in France and the rest of Europe in a vesper service held in support of the World Student Service Fund.

Dr. Macy used as an example the University of Nancy in which he taught. "There," he said, "there was no heat and students huddled in class in overcoats while the professor stood in front of a window with a flashlight in order to see his notes. There was such a great need for books that sometimes a student would have to stay up all night reading a book in order to get it back the next day for the next person."

Juniors To Meet

Warren Smith, president of the junior class, has announced that a meeting of the class will be held Thursday, Nov. 20 at 7 p. m. in the Apollo room of Phi Beta Kappa hall.

J. W. Wright Presents Map To W & M Library

A unique 18th-century map, colored in pastels, of the states of Savoy and Piedmont has been presented the William and Mary library by Col. John Womack Wright, who attended the college with the class of 1895. This map was the work of the cartographer Jean-Baptiste Nolin and is the only one in existence.

The gift will become a part of the Helen Elizabeth Hyde Wright collection of books and maps, which Col. Wright presented to the college in 1947 in memory of his wife. Based on the theme, "Napoleon and the Art of War", the collection consists of 1,200 volumes and 272 maps. After a display last spring, the volumes and maps were mostly confined to the vaults.
